Cottage Hospital's Kevin Borrelli earns Doctorate

Woodsville, NH - Cottage Hospital is proud to announce Kevin Borrelli recently was awarded his Doctorate in Physical Therapy (DPT) from Franklin Pierce College.

As a physical therapist, Kevin uses evidence based practice to evaluate and treat a patient's problems; achieving the DPT provides Kevin with the enhanced ability to serve patients through additional education and knowledge in areas such as diagnostics, imaging, pharmacology, physiology, biomechanics, business practices, and health promotion.

Physical therapist intervention includes exercises for strength, flexibility, endurance, coordination and range of motion and may treat muscles, tendons ligaments, bones and wounds. Occasionally, it may require devices, or orthotics, to rest or support joints—a special interest of Kevin's. Through proper evaluation, diagnosis and treatment, therapists can improve the overall function of patients and improve the quality of life.

“Kevin's commitment to quality and education are commendable,” said Marcy Rushford, Director of Radiology and Rehabilitation Services at Cottage Hospital. “His achievement is clearly a reflection of his desire to improve patient care and outcomes for folks in our community.”

Kevin Borrelli joined the Cottage Hospital Team in 2007, after completing his Masters in Physical Therapy from Franklin Pierce College. He is an active church member, outdoor enthusiast, and developing musician, residing locally.
